We must be willing to dream big, take some risks and even know that it is okay to fail. If we never fail, we are probably not dreaming big enough. This is where we live the cost of the cross of Jesus and find ourselves so deeply rooted in the love of God that we are free to imagine a renewed Church that God can ever more fully use for the work of the transformation of all creation. — Bishop Adams

The Brittain Center is on the North Campus of the First United Methodist Church in Myrtle Beach. It is at 904 65th Avenue North. The best route is to turn on 62nd Avenue North from Highway 17 Bypass. There is a traffic signal at this turn. Then turn left on either Frontage Road, Blynn Drive or Tindal Street. The North Campus is the collection of white buildings at the end of each of these streets. The Brittain Center is the building in the back of the complex.
